Housing Corporat'n Official Addresses Board of Trade

At the regular meeting of Blairmore Board of Trade, held in Oliva hall last evening, Mr. R. G. Lillie, of Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation, Calgary office, addressed the gathering on the problem of the housing shortage and the methods adopted by the government to relieve the situation. The meeting was presided over by President Don Thornton, with F. J. Lote acting secretary in the absence of Secretary Reg. Jones.

In his opening remarks, Mr. Lillie briefly explained the operation of the Wartime Housing Act, the National Housing Act, and how Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation assisted in carrying out plans.

Besides giving information on various projects now in progress in Alberta, he likened the situation in Blairmore to Coleman's problem, where he recently addressed a similar gathering, and suggested either joint loan plan or integrated housing plan would be best suited here.

In a joint loan, a prospective builder could make application to the NHA for a loan up to 85 per cent of the lending value, the builder to furnish the balance as down payment. In the integrated plan, a contractor would be able to borrow for construction of five or more homes for resale. In any case a strict inspection would be made on all units under construction, and priorities extended for materials.

Mr. Lillie thought the Blairmore housing problem could be solved by local or outside contractors to construct the homes aided by government loans.

Following Mr. Lillie's outline of the various plans, the next hour was taken up by a question period, displaying the interest manifest in the housing shortage problem. The Board went on record of proceeding, furthering information, with E. Basso, A. G. "Mike" Marcal and J. T. Gagne appointed a committee to report at the next meeting.

A vote of thanks was tendered Mr. Lillie.

Other matters to come before the Board were the construction, temporary if necessary, of the bridge on 5th Avenue washed out by the recent flood, and the idea of road mileage signs, the tourist promotion committee to get details on the latter and report.

The meeting adjourned at 10:15 until August 5, at 7:30 p.m. in the Oliva hall.

The brothers have not seen each other for over 35 years, and although Walter was a very small boy the last time the brothers were together, he recognized Tom immediately. The Cleave brothers and their families journeyed to Calgary on Thursday of last week to spend a few days there.

The bride's sisters, Miss Dorothy Reeves, Calgary, and Miss Vaughn Reeves, Lethbridge, were maid of honor and bridesmaid, respectively. The best man was Mr. Hugh McLeod of Calgary.

Great statesmanship is not made up of deep thinking but of deep caring.

33 Road Projects on Alberta Program

Provincial road work is being advanced on 33 different projects in various parts of Alberta, according to information received by officials of the Alberta Motor Association.

Thus, the appropriation of $13,500,000 for highway improvements this year is getting well under way. Several graveling contracts have been awarded and tenders have been called on a group of new jobs listed for this season.

Surfacing, grading and graveling are well under way as crews are taking full advantage of fine construction weather. The work extends from near the USA border in the south to the Peace River district in the north.

Work also is under way on secondary and district roads for which substantial appropriations also were made at the last session of the Alberta legislature.

Meeting recently for their semi-annual sessions, the provincial directors of the AMA pointed to the need of detours being properly designated for the information of the public. Also, it was suggested that at certain sections where a detour was impassable, it was the responsibility of the contractor or provincial authorities to see that required tractor or other equipment was at hand to pull cars through the bad section.

SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT

When you buy for price you can never be sure. It's unwise to pay too much, but it's worse to pay too little. When you pay too little, you lose a little money, that is all. But when you pay too much, you sometimes lose more, because the thing you bought was incapable of doing the thing it was bought to do.

If you deal with the lowest bidder, it is well to add something for the risk you run. And if you do that, you will have enough to pay for something better. -The Actua-izer.

Kicking never starts you off on the right foot.

Mr. Chester Seles, who is employed to Allan Knjcek's lumber camp, had his hand seriously injured while at work on Friday last. While trying to remove a slab from a saw, his fingers were caught in the saw. The tip of his index finger was cut off and the next finger badly lacerated. He was rushed to the Blairmore hospital for medical attention.

According to the Canada Gazette, the following in this district have been granted naturalization: Frank Amatto, John Katal, John Kubas, Alex. Afon-jak Yacula, all of Blairmore; Robert Nakoff, Francis Ondrik, Joseph Spie, frequent visitors at the Hot Springs, of Coleman; John Shrlak of Bellevue; and Alfred Basher, William Ruk and Mike Carib Svabod, of Pincher Creek.

Provincial First Aid Men Elect Officers

At the annual meeting of the Alberta Provincial Council of the St. John Ambulance Association held at Lethbridge recently, Assistant Commissioner H. Darling, RCMP, was elected president. He will retain the position for a term of three years. Other officials elected for a similar term are Reg. J. Smith, Calgary, vice-president; Julian Garrett, Edmonton, honorary treasurer, and E. C. Emmott, Edmonton, provincial secretary.

DR. HERBERT CLAXTON NOMINATED AT BROOKS

On Friday last at Brooks, Dr. Herbert Claxton was named Liberal candidate for the provincial riding of Bow Valley - Empress at a nominating meeting attended by about 75. The cup was originally donated by Albert John for in 1926, when the first regatta was held. It has been given by its owners, the Captain A. C. Hatfield, J.P., nee Condo. Bow Valley - Empress Liberal Association it should be awarded each year as first prize for the sailing events. If the regatta ceases to function as an annual event, the cup is to be returned to Captain Hatfield or his family.

WHO'S AFRAID?

There are pessimists abroad in the land seeing things, looking for ghosts, or what have you? Some people are always looking for something to worry about, something to be afraid of or bemoan.

When we think of austerity and these individuals it reminds us of the never be sure. It's unwise to pay too much, but it's worse to pay too little. When you pay too little, you lose a little money, that is all. But when you pay too much, you sometimes lose more, because the thing you bought was incapable of doing the thing it was bought to do.

If you deal with the lowest bidder, it is well to add something for the risk you run. And if you do that, you will have enough to pay for something better. -The Actua-izer.

AUSTERITY

Means severity of manners. This can be a directive program which will require individual interpretation and action. The meaning can be translated into new demands for greater production efficiency from men and machines in every phase of Canadian industry to prevent a dangerous end result. "A total controlled economy." To prevent this it will require a new appreciation for co-operation and co-ordination in every phase of our business activities.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Carmichael and Shirley have returned from a pleasant holiday that took them: as far as Spokane and back to Nelson, where Harvey got in his summer curling. While in the Nelson district numerous visits were made to Ainsworth Hot Springs, operated by Jack Clark, a former resident of Blairmore. We also understand Henry Zak and party were frequent visitors at the Hot Springs.

Mr. Clark is always happy to welcome his friends from the Pass.

The Trend Of World Trade

WORLD TRADE IS ALWAYS a complex matter, and unsettled economic conditions abroad have caused much speculation as to the outcome of the present situation. Great Britain, always an important trading nation, has because of the serious dollar shortage here, been forced to look more and more to those countries which are within the sterling area for the goods which she must import. Consequently in Canada, which is a "dollar country" there is some anxiety as to whether Britain will continue to buy the greater part of her imported food supplies here, or whether much of this trade may be diverted to countries within the sterling area. There is reason for some concern on this matter, since there are many indications that Britain intends to increase her purchases of food in those countries where the dollar shortage is not a consideration.

May Become A Competitor

It is believed that Australia may become one important competitor in supplying the British food market. Recently, Sir Henry Turner, of the United Kingdom Food Ministry, commenting on discussions which has taken place with the Australian government regarding large scale food production there, said that Australia could become "a vast granary for Britain and much of Europe." The British colonial territories in Africa and other parts of the world are likewise increasing food production and may soon be in a position to send supplies to the United Kingdom. A plan to raise millions of pigs, to supply bacon to the British market, is now under way in Queensland, and it is also planned to sow large areas in sunflowers, from which oil can be obtained to make margarine, which is widely used in Britain.

Plan Expansion In Australia

There are also plans for great expansion in the production of meat and eggs in Australia. In East Africa arrangements are being made to raise vast crops of ground nuts, a source of fats and oils, and food production is being encouraged in other areas where dollars are not required for trade. At present the world food situation is such that there are markets for all that is produced, and we have recently been warned that Canadians will be required to experience shortages in some things as a result of this country's participation in the European Recovery Program. There is no doubt, however, but that the future is uncertain, and that in all probability there will be many adjustments in the pattern of world trade. It is to be hoped that Canada will not find markets for her farm products depleted as a result of this apparently inevitable adjustment.

Tips On How To Keep Cool

NEW YORK—Stop talking about the heat and humidity, and just relax—if you want to be cooler.

This was the advice offered by a recognized psychologist who also tore down the old-fashioned belief that several layers of wool will keep out the heat.

The modern way of dressing sensibly is best, he said. Trouble with wearing too heavy clothing, he said, is that a person is hot before he gets it all on. Result, he keeps the heat right next to his body.

Some other suggestions on how to beat the heat were:

Wear something on the head—unless you already have a hat. This is particularly important for older persons.

Yes, fan yourself, but be sure it is with a regular rhythm. Do not exert yourself. Take a lesson from those in the tropics; be as quiet as possible during the heat of the day.

Gulping water by the gallon won't cool a person. It is harmful to health. It forces the heart to do extra pumping.

An alcoholic drink is all right, if not too much is taken.

Heavy food should be avoided. Food easily digested and with light caloric content is the best if you want to stay cool.

Let the perspiration pour out. If you're normal, you should perspire. It's part of your body's normal elimination process.

This psychologist, who was in the army medical corps, said suicide rates go up during the hot months. The heat and humidity bring on a depressed feeling.

So therefore, refrain from talking about the weather. Some weak person may destroy himself.

For the person who asks "Is it hot enough for you?" the doctor has a remedy. It is:

Count ten, and then let him have it.

SENTRY WAS PUNISHED FOR BEING CARELESS

CHIPPINGA, South Africa.—Pat O'Donnell of Whittington, near Chippinga, discovered a troop of baboons on his property. He shot one and wounded two others while the rest raced away.

Baboons always place a sentry on guard to give warning when danger is near. When the baboons reached a place of safety, they tackled the sentry, biting and beating him, presumably for failing to report the presence of a human enemy.

In the last 4,000 years of history there have been only 268 years entirely free of war.

FUNNY And OTHERWISE

In the course of an English lesson the teacher wrote on the blackboard: "He was bent on seeing his 'old school'."

"Now, Charlie," she said, "I want you to study that sentence and then say it to me in your own words."

After some thought Charlie said cheerfully to the teacher: "The sight of his old school doubled him up."

He had arrived home late, and his wife was giving him a piece of her mind. "I don't care, my dear," he said, getting really angry.

"I mean exactly what I say," "I'm a man who calls a spade a spade."

His wife nodded. "Maybe, Henry," she said with his characteristic air of indifference. "You don't call a club a club; you call it what working late in the office."

Misses (hearing crash in kitchen): "More dishes, Mary?"
Mary: "No, ma'am, less."

She (poetically): "Isn't that sunset glowing, Harold. The bars of red and gold are Nature's own efforts in picture-making. What—"

He: "Yes, dear, it put me in mind of something, too. I can't think whether it's streaky bacon or a plate of sliced tomatoes."

Woman (in a crowded bus): I wish that good-looking man would give me his seat.

Five men got up.

Centenarian: "Yup, I'm 100 years old, Bub, and I'm proud to say I ain't got an enemy on earth."

Centenarian: "Yup. Last one died 'bout a year ago."

Whole steak was on the menu and there was no particular run on it, so the waiter was surprised when a diner demanded a double portion.

"Sorry to put you to the trouble of fetching water specially for me," said an English tourist, who had ordered whisky in a Highland inn.

"Nae trouble at all," replied the host. "I always keep a drop on the premises in case of fire."

"Why don't you marry her?"
"She has a slight impediment in her speech."

"How sad. What is it?"
"She can't say yes."

Days Of Peace Tough As War, Says Churchill

PERTH, Scotland.—Winston Churchill, accepting the freedom of the city with honors heretofore only given to Royalty, warned that the days of peace were no less difficult than those of war.

"The biggest effort must be made not only in days of struggle and in war but in many ways the more difficult times of peace," Churchill said. He said the battle for peace "requires the full, united effort of our whole nation, of all classes and parties in it, in order that we may arise again to the great position we held when all was dark."

Predicts Man May Fly Like Birds

CAMBRIDGE.—People may be able to fly like birds in 50 years, says Roger Babson.

The economist told an 1898 class reunion at Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

"There probably will be discovered some product which insulates against gravity. This would make it possible for an individual to stand on something three feet square and a few inches thick and eliminate his weight so that he could fly personally with or without the aid of a motor."

Night Driving Can Be Very Dangerous

Driving in the dazzling light of an oncoming car is dangerous business; dangerous alike to the dazzler and the dazzled. And it is so unnecessary. To dim the lights of a car is so simple and easy a task that it seems that the danger involved by not doing so would compel a motorist approaching another car at night to take this simple precaution against the possibility of accident to his own car as well as the cars of others. It should not take a law to bring about the dimming of headlights. Common decency demands that a motorist practice this simple rule of night driving etiquette, for it is etiquette, and good manners are just as essential on the roads as in the ballroom.

Population Trend Worries Great Britain

Fear Within Next 20 Years Nation Will Be Composed Mostly Of Very Young And Old

LONDON.—Britain lives in the shadow of an impending population crisis.

That is the opinion of population experts who warn the country is in danger of becoming a land composed mostly of the very young and the very old within the next 20 years. The reasons, they say, are a retreat from parenthood and a draining of middle-aged groups through migration.

These are the main findings of a report just issued by Political and Economic Planning, an independent, non-party, fact-finding organization. It has been probing population trends since 1933.

To counter these population prospects for Britain, the report suggested adoption of a "population policy" by the government. "This should strive to increase the average family to 2½ children and create conditions where people will want, as well as be able, to have 'four or five' children."

The report predicted that Britain's population of 45,000,000 will be down 1,830,000 in 1970. At the same time that of western, central and northern Europe will be down by 9,000,000, that of southern and eastern Europe up by 27,000,000 and that of Russia up by 77,000,000.

The report also suggested that in the next 20 years population growth would halt in Canada, Australia, the United States and among white South Africans. But it expects to continue "for several generations" in South America.

The report said that migration of the young and vigorous to the Dominions can only make Britain's age structure still more disadvantageous. The country should prevent only if the Dominions accept "an appropriate percentage of those who are a burden on the community." But prospects for other countries admitting a cross section of Britain's population "are probably slight."

The report also found that the present increases in birth rate in Britain may well be a temporary consequence of the war. It expected numbers soon would cease to increase and the population of older people "will grow from year to year."

THIS SAILOR REALLY STARTED SOMETHING

SAN FRANCISCO.—Fred Rutzel, 65, retired seaman, put on his yogi suit and went out on a fire escape.

A woman on the street screamed.

A bartender came out of a corner saloon and bellowed "He's going to jump!"

Neighbors screamed, "Fire!" Someone called the police, who learned that:

Rutzel's yogi suit is long underwear.

"It's all yogi. While I was a seaman on the Great Lakes I saw a sign in Chicago: 'Indo psychology taught here.' I learned yogi—inhalate six, stop for 16 heartbeats, exhale eight."

"If it wasn't for yogi I wouldn't be here," Rutzel told the cops.

That explanation seemed to satisfy everyone.

KITCHEN MEDITATIONS

Compensations
By JANE DALE

I have never seen the moonlight dancing upon the ocean wide; But I have seen the moonbeams dancing on pools across the countryside.

I have never seen a day-dawning from the top of a mountain high; But I have seen a prairie sunrise make glad a summer sky.

I have never heard a nightingale, or seen a peacock's fine array; But I have seen an oriole flashing and heard a robin's roundelay.

Not for me has been the pleasure of wearing orchids rich and rare; But I have had children's fingers twine daisies in my hair.

It has not been my lot to travel where wealthy people roam; But God has given me eyes to see all the beauties around my home.

Avoiding Tractor Trouble

Working on the oil is dusty work. Care in maintenance of tractors will avoid breakdowns due to excessive wear in dust-filled bearings.

By J. T. EWING

AMONG additional services planned by implement dealers when trained men are available, is that of farm servicing. Many farmers would welcome such a service, but until it is available adjustments and minor repairs must be left to their own experience and ingenuity. There is a right way and a wrong way to service any tractor to increase its trouble-free life.

Rain water or soft water should be used in the radiator. Lime deposits (scale) from hard water prevent the cooling water from coming into contact with the cylinder walls, causing excessive heating. Radiator passages will also be coated, preventing the water from being cooled by the fan, and may even prevent proper circulation through the radiator.

If only hard water is available, the cooling system should be flushed periodically with a reliable solvent. Commercial compounds are available for the removal of scale. A rust preventive or a little soluble oil in the water will prolong radiator life and increase efficiency.

Plugged Air Vents

Another cause of overheating is the plugging of the radiator air vents by dirt. A screen will partially protect the radiator, but it may be necessary to blow it out occasionally with an air or water hose. Hose clamps and the fan belt should be kept tight.

Because of dusty working conditions care must be taken to prevent dust from entering the cylinder head through the carburetor. If air entering the cylinders is dust-laden the dirt will cause excessive wear of the spark gap. Too wide a gap causes misfiring on heavy loads. If the gap is too narrow the engine may die at low speeds. The gap should be adjusted by bending the electrode on the shell of the plug, never the one in the centre of the porcelain. Changing indiscriminately from one make of plug to another is not recommended. Tractor manufacturers have tested various plugs and know which ones are best for their particular engines.

Where it is desired to burn distillate or kerosene instead of gasoline, a change should be made in the type of plug employed. Where gasoline is the fuel, a "cold" plug is used, and when the fuel is distillate or kerosene, a "hot" plug is required. The "hot" plug is so made that more of the hot gases from the combustion chamber have access to it than is the case with the "cold" plug. This enables the "hot" plug to do a better job if igniting the slower burning vapors in distillate or kerosene.

In tractors without battery and starter an impulse starter is generally used in connection with the magneto. It may give trouble because dust has got into it. All brushes on the magneto should work freely, and

Chinese Herbs On The Market

VANCOUVER.—Tiger balm or dried snake for those rheumatic pains and dried seahorse to keep down the blood pressure are on the market again.

K. H. Lee, pre-war owner of a large Chinese drugstore in Shanghai and his partner, Ko Sing, have returned from a buying trip to China to set up shop here.

Herbal and animal remedies used for thousands of years in the Orient are being dispersed. Deeborn tonic for the blood, a herb called "ma huang", juice-of-alion waters and dried turtles are in stock.

"Chinese medicines are mostly herbs," said Mr. Lee. Many date from the time of Emperor Hsuan Nung, 5,000 years before the birth of Christ.

Most are sold in bulk, and are leaves, bark or dried stems sliced crosswise. Animal preparations are neatly tied in papers.

Mr. Lee attributes China's freedom from the influenza epidemic in 1918 to these medicines, and points with pride to the long lives of his relatives who have been in the business for three generations.

His mother is 81, his uncles 80 and 85, and two of his grandfathers lived to be 93 and 94.

Young Girl Overcomes A Serious Handicap

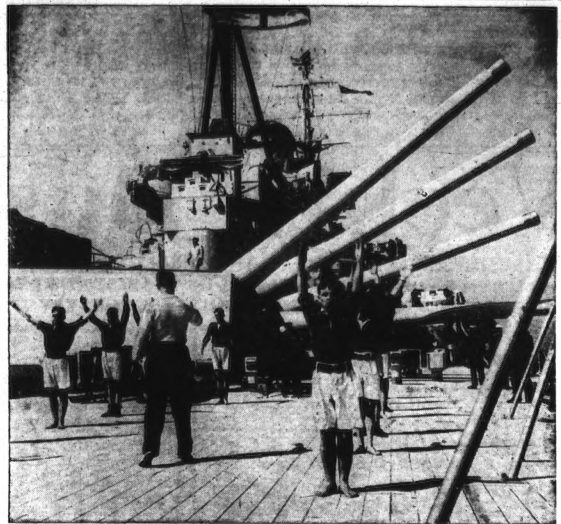

TORONTO.—Nine-year-old Eleanor Glidden writes, weaves, swims and plays with the gang—which would not be unusual except that Eleanor was born without arms.

A pupil at Wellesley School for Crippled Children here, the only orthopaedic day school in Canada, she is an excellent student.

Eleanor talks rarely about her handicap but will discuss it in a grown-up way with persons she believes are sincere and not merely curious.

Sometimes people seeing Eleanor for the first time will express sympathy, but she reminds them of her special "guiding light", Kathleen Hart, born without hands and feet who is on her way to the front rank of Canadian artists.

BRITAIN'S FUTURE SAILORS TRAIN ON RETIRED BATTLESHIP—The retired battleship, H.M.S. Anson now is relegated to the role of a floating naval school for the training of Britain's future sailors. TRUNK VERY SMALL BUT LEAVES LARGE

The jupat palm of South America has what the Encyclopedia Americana describes as the largest leaf in the vegetable kingdom. While the trunk of the jupat is only six or seven feet high, the leaves may grow 50 feet in length, with a leaf stalk often 12 or 13 feet long. Just the thing to fan one's self with on a hot summer day!

GIFT FOR PRINCESS

LONDON, Ont.—An unusual stamp collection was sent from London to Princess Elizabeth from eight-year-old John Westhead. The gift is 213 covers on the official stationery of every Canadian City and bearing the new four-cent stamp of the Princess. Most are first day covers.

Crows Did Not Know About High Power Line

CARLEBAD, N.M.—What the crows didn't know apparently didn't hurt them.

R. E. Tarleton said some crows built their nest on the crossarm of a power line pole. The pole carries a 2300-volt line to the polish mine where he is chief electrician.

After fuses were blown three times, Tarleton found the trouble. The crows had tied their nest together with bits of blating wire, short-circuiting the line. But he didn't find any dead crows.

TREE HAS EVERYTHING

Perhaps the world's most remarkable tree is the Moriche Palm of Venezuela. Its fruit is edible, the juice is made into beer, the sap into wine and the pith into bread. It provides thatch for fish-lines, cordage and nets. Its wood is good for building.

Handling a tractor can be heavy work if it is not in good shape. If children or women help with the hand work it is especially important to have the controls working easily.

pistons, rings, and cylinder walls—as owners of older type tractors will corroborate. Filtering of this air is a major need.

In modern tractors the air has to pass through a bath of oil in its way to the carburetor, and the pump must not be allowed to become filled with dirt. The air cleaner should be removed after at least every 300 hours of operation. Besides cleaning, the connections should be examined for leaks.

Since the cap on the crankcase breather pipe is a small air cleaner, it also needs daily attention. Frequent washing in kerosene, followed by a dip in clean oil will keep it in good condition to do its job.

The carburetor needle valve and seat should be examined, and replaced if worn. The float should be checked to see that it holds the fuel at the proper level. The fuel line should also be checked. It may be clogged with dirt.

The oil filter cartridge should be replaced as directed, also whenever the cylinder oil has a "sludgy" appearance when changed.

Valve Gap Clearance

Adjustment of valve gap clearance should be high on any list of periodic tractor checks. A badness gauge to check the gap clearance between the valve lifters and the ends of the valve stems, and gap clearance of spark plugs and breaker points in the distributor, should be in every tractor operator's tool box.

When checking valve gap clearance make sure that the end of the push rod operating the rocker arm is on the heel of the cam during the check thus producing the widest possible gap. Since each cylinder has two valves, it is possible to make sure the one to be checked for gap clearance is on the heel of the cam by seeing that the other valve is open. The correct clearance is given in the instruction book.

Too small a gap is worse than one which is too wide. When the gap is too narrow the valves may be held off their seats when the engine is hot. Burning gases will burn valves and valve seats. Too wide a gap results in loss of power, sluggish engine operation and, sometimes, overheating under load. Valve grinding is seldom necessary unless the engine begins to lack compression.

Spark plugs need a monthly check. Electrodes burn thin, widening the make good contact with the distributor. The breaker points in the distributor of a battery-operated system are about the only other part likely to need attention during the busy season. The rocker arm carrying the movable point must turn very freely on its pivot or it may stick, causing the engine to break down. Clearances between the points are checked with the thickness gauge. If they have become pitted they should be filed with a special file made for the purpose, and then readjusted. Rapid pitting usually is caused by a faulty condenser. A new condenser is the remedy.

A less obvious aid in promoting trouble-free operation of the tractor is care in the handling of fuel and lubricating oil. Dirt can just as easily get into the cylinders or the crankcase in the gasoline or distillate, or in the crankcase oil as in any other way. If they are kept in 45 gallon drums a shed should be provided to house them. Placed on stands about 20 inches above the floor, and fitted with faucets, clean fuel and oil are assured.

On most tractors the steering levers are encased in a bath of oil. In some cases the oil must be checked, and replenished as necessary.

A frequent check should be made of the air pressure of the tires, if the tractor is rubber shod, and the tires inspected. When regular and thorough use of the grease gun, and a periodic check of the transmission oil are added to the things already mentioned, continuous trouble free operation of the farm tractor will be assured.

International air travel has grown so rapidly since the war that today in the United States, a plane starts on or completes a scheduled transoceanic crossing on an average of every 53 minutes.

RACCOONS SHIPPED TO ENGLISH ZOO

A shipment of 8 raccoons destined to the Dudley Zoo in Worcestershire, England, went forward by the SS Beaver Cove from Montreal on June 29.

The animals were captured on Beausoliel Island, one of a group of islands comprising the Georgian Bay Island National Park in Ontario.

Their diet on the journey will consist of nuts and vegetables, but they are not likely to refuse an offer of corn-on-the-cob, a juicy apple, a bunch of grapes, or even a ripe watermelon from the ship's larder. In fact they relish scraps from the kitchen as much as anything else in their wide menu of foods.

Raccoons are now fairly plentiful on Beausoliel Island, which they share with many other wild animals, including elk, white-tailed deer, red fox, porcupine; red, black and grey squirrel; chipmunk, muskrat, mink and weasel. The wild creatures provide one of the many attractions on this popular summer playground and wild life sanctuary.

Don't Let Him Get You Down

In a town where everyone knows everybody there is always a Knocker ready to paint most sordid pictures of prevailing conditions and attitudes.

Don't let him get you down.

He will tell you community support is lacking here and there, and it seems to be his business to knock local business.

The churches are losing support.
The newspaper is something or other.

The council is spending too much or too little.

Isn't he a wonderful specimen of manhood to have around when you might be needing a little encouragement or an optimistic suggestion?

If this Knocker could really suffer a little, see the other's viewpoint a little and not always say what he thinks to the other fellow, there might still be some good left in him to help the town. But it is questionable if he will change.

He is the type of fellow who is ripe for communism, or any other "ism" foreign to goodwill and community progress. He walks on the streets of destruction.

What a wonderful purpose to have in life. To destroy and never build, never pat your fellow man on the back; never to praise, always ready to condemn.

Remember, friend, when he starts on you, don't let him get you down.
Always be a booster in your own home town. — Shavinnigan (Quebec)

REMEMBER! IT'S A WOMAN WHO SAID ALL THIS

According to a woman columnist, a woman's least attractive moments are:

When she is sizing up a woman who is better dressed than she is.

When she's in the middle of a permanent wave.

When she is hurrying with her arms full of bundles.

When she loses her temper with a child.

When she is wearing a fixed social smile that doesn't light up her eyes or soften her face.

When she lets a cigarette dangle
from her lips.

When she is yanking a small child along at a faster pace than is comfortable for it.

When she is putting another woman in her place.

When she is passing along a bit of really vicious gossip.

Please remember—all that was said by a woman, not a man.

just had to strike up a conversation,
as follows:

He: "You are going into this pretty carefully."

He: "I like to do good work."

We: "But, would your customers know the difference until after you're gone?"

He: "No."

We: "Are you coming back this

He: "I may never get around here again."

We: "Then, why do you do such a good job?"

He: "So it will be easier for the next fellow who comes along," said the worker, gently.

If ignorance is bliss, why aren't more people happy?

Pastry or biscuit dough

Cut veal and ham into thin slices. Trimings from roast may be used. When baked, add a little well seasoned stock. Serve hot or cold.

The Lunch Box

The lunch carried from home requires thought in planning so that it will be satisfying, nutritious and appetizing. The container used plays a large part in keeping the lunch in good condition.

The lunch box should be dust-proof, well ventilated and easily washed. Metal boxes have these advantages, and when collapsible they are easy to carry home. Some are arranged in compartments and are equipped with thermos bottles.

Baskets are not easily cleaned and unless the food is well wrapped, it dries out quickly.

Fibre boxes are cheap, but they are absorbent and therefore hard to keep clean.

Wax paper, paper napkins, paper plates and containers, paper or collapsible metal cups, thermos bottles and sealtight jars all aid in preparing lunches.

The lunch box menu should be planned to include a substantial food, a juicy fruit or vegetable, a simple dessert and a beverage.

Sandwiches, which are usually included, should be made from day-old bread, which may be Graham, whole wheat, rye, rolls or white bread.

In cutting the bread, arrange the slices so that they will fit together. Cream the butter or butter substitute until soft enough to spread easily. The butter tends to prevent a soft filling from making the bread soggy.

Veal Birds

3/4 pounds veal steak
1/2 cup flour
2 tablespoons fat
3/4 cups boiling water
Wipe veal and trim off fat; cut into 8 pieces of uniform size; spread each piece with stuffing, roll and fasten with tooth-picks. Roll the birds in part of the flour and brown in shallow fat. OUR COMPLETE SHORT STORY—

TOO OLD TO APPRECIATE

By HANK McALL

SALLY GIBSON had been raised in a gentle home, but her muttering was unfit to hear as she scowled at the white wake of a fast-moving speedboat. She slipped her tiller overboard, ducked under the boom, and swung her catboat into another tack. Once steadied on her new course, she squeezed salt water out of her hair and brushed the brine off her long brown legs and bathing suit. The racer had doused her with a solid sheet of foam.

"The fool," she growled, "there ought to be a law to keep such clowns off the water. My coach here comes another one!"

A black speck spouting white wings was skipping down the channel seemingly headed straight for her. She kept her eyes on it; determined not to get another ducking. In the meantime the boy in the first boat had turned around and was skimming back to give her a second shower. It wasn't every day a good-looking girl was caught alone in the middle of the channel.

Sally, unaware of the approaching attack from her stern, focused on the new menace. The boat whizzed by within five yards. As she turned to shake her flat, her eyes glimpsed the returning sport. It was too late to do anything. The original tormentor was on her neck. He was aiming to pass at six inches. Then there was a splashing and the air screaming. "Watch out!"

She bobbed up clear of her wrecked hull, swam over to it, and held on while her breath came back. She saw the sleek machine inbound nose into the water as it slowed to swing back for a rescue.

A life ring splashed beside her. She heard a voice, "You all right?" "I don't know. Get me out of the water."

The grinning face of a tanned young man peered down. Her temper snapped.

"Don't you laugh at me. I'm going to put you in jail, you—"

Her tears cut her off. She felt a strong grip under her shoulders and then the varnished deck beneath her. For several seconds she lay there sobbing.

"I'm awfully sorry, honest. I didn't mean to—"

Sally regained her self-control. "You better be sorry. Don't stand there gawking, get a line on my boat before it sinks."

"It won't sink. Sit down, I'll get it."

He took in the sail, bubbling to himself. "What a courageous creature. What an introduction! If I can only smooth this over, my brother Roger's eyes will pop out."

The line secured he turned to Sally and said, "We'll tow it back to our landing and bail it out. Say, you must want my name. I'm Bill Henson. I'm staying at my brother's cottage. This is his boat, by the way."

"You certainly are a fine one. Your brother didn't hit me, you did. I suppose it was his going to pay."

Bill grunted and held the tow line away from his propeller as he eased around to head up the channel. Then turned to his "passenger."

"Don't sit there and sulk. The damage is done, you're not hurt, Roger will fix everything, so we may as well be friends. What's your name, Miss Fireball?"

"Sally Gibson. The damage is done! Look at the rents in my sail. And the hull. I hate to think of all the holes in it. I hope your brother has enough money to buy me another boat. If he doesn't, I'll tell you go."

"Money! Roger is made of money. He's been making it for years, never even took time off to get married or go to college. He'll fix everything, don't worry."

"They have asylums for lunatics like you. You'd be at home there."

"Don't be so bitter. I was just trying to have fun. You'd have gotten a big thrill if that wave hadn't knocked me into you."

"Oh, so it was a wave! Not your fault at all. You're going to have a hard time proving that!"

The sun was setting as Bill steered for a private dock. In the background a green lawn spread out to a trim white cottage. A white pebble walk led up to its porch.

"Here we are. That looks like Roger nishing on the dock. He's not going to like this, too old to appreciate a little fun."

A tall lean man of about thirty looked them over closely, frowned at the half-submerged tow. "What kind of trouble are you in now, Bill?"

"Aw, Roger, don't get rid. This is just a little accident. I'm Miss Sally Gibson."

Roger made Sally sit down and explain matters. Bill went off to haul up the boat. Sally found it astonishingly easy to make her case with the older brother, whom she found pleasant and understanding. They reached a generous agreement over the repairs and walked down to the beach where Bill was struggling.

Bill announced, "Doesn't look like much damage. It's really getting too dark to tell much. I'll run you home now, Sally, and tomorrow afternoon I'll come back for you. We can settle this business and then go for a real boat ride. How does that sound?"

It was about three o'clock when Bill strutted up to the Gibson home. Mr. Gibson himself answered the door.

"Hello. I'm Bill Henson. Is Sally in?"

"No, son, she went for a speed boat ride. Look, there she goes now."

"In that boat? Why, that's my brother's! Say, who's that guy she's snuggled up to?"

Mr. Gibson took a long puff on his pipe and smiled. "Well, son, I'd say that must be your brother."

New Brunswick Uses Unique Balloting Plan

FREDERICTON.—The system of balloting used in the June 28 New Brunswick general election is believed unique in Canada.

Each party prints ballots containing only the names of its own candidates, or a voter can use a blank piece of paper supplied by the returning officer.

When a voter enters the polling place he is handed one party-printed ballot by each party contesting the seat. He is also given an initiated envelope by the returning officer.

The voter enters the booth, marks the ballot of the party he wishes to support by placing the usual "X" after each of the party's candidates in the riding, and places it in the envelope. He does not seal the envelope.

The returning officer examines the envelope to make sure it is the one furnished by him. Then, in the presence of the voter, he drops it into the ballot box.

If a voter requests it, the returning officer will furnish a blank slip on which the voter may write or letter the names of candidates for whom he wishes to vote.

When the ballots are being counted, any envelope containing more than one ballot is classed spoiled and all ballots in the envelope are invalid.

If he wishes, however, a voter may check out any name appearing on the party ballot and write in the name of another candidate.

In this way, a voter may use a party ballot but vote for members of another party or split his vote.

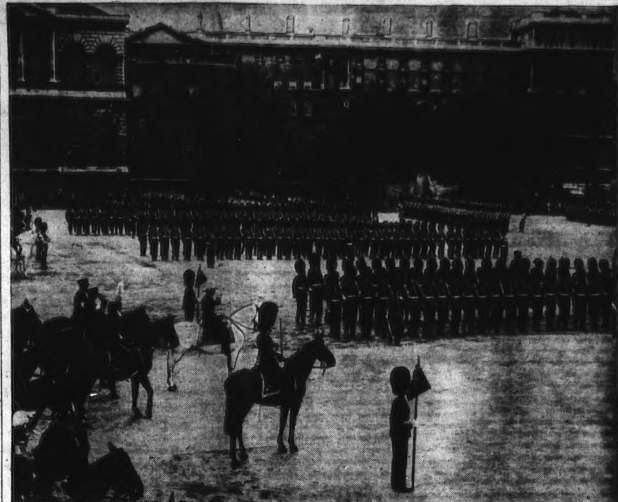

Thus, in a riding where there are four candidates, a voter could vote for two on the party ballot, strike out the remaining two and add the names of the two candidates of another party.

If he adds the name of a person not nominated as a candidate or adds more candidates than there are members to be elected in the riding, the ballot is spoiled.

BRITAIN'S NEW ALUMINIUM CAR IS LOW PRICED

LONDON.—Britain's first factory-produced all-aluminum minicar is ready. On Britain's standard gas ration, which gives a 90 mile a month mileage for ordinary cars, this small three-wheeler will give two adults and a child 300 miles of pleasure motoring. Gas consumption is over 100 miles to the gallon. This machine hums along the road at a comfortable thirty and climbs gradients 1 in 4 with ease. Maximum speed is 40. Total weight of the car is under 200 pounds and the overall length is eight feet. Running costs are almost nil, because there's nothing to go wrong. This runabout will certainly be popular in Britain where the gas ration is small. It rates $600.

An unenviable form of DDT was invented in 1947 with excellent film-forming properties.

LONDON SEES GUARDS IN SCARLET AND BEARSKINS AGAIN—Resplendent in pre-war scarlet, white and black uniforms, famed British Guards regiment gave London its most colorful show of the year when the traditional trooping of the color ceremony took place. In full dress uniform, Guards marched past the saluting base. Representatives of the King and Duke of Gloucester took the salute.

HOME ECONOMICS INSTRUCTOR SAYS 88¢ A DAY CAN PROVIDE NOURISHING MEALS

DAVIS, Calif.—A housewife with a caloric-conscious eye and a firm grip on her pocketbook can produce three nutritious meals a day for 88 cents.

Miss Laura Morse, home economics instructor of the University of California College of Agriculture, says it's so, despite soaring prices.

But, if the housewife thinks only of the pennies saved and ignores the nutrients lost, her 88 cents will provide a diet far short of a person's food needs, Miss Morse maintains.

The girls in her home economics class prepared two sets of meals, each costing 88 cents in all for breakfast, lunch and dinner.

They don't claim the following meals to be delicious, but they insist they're nutritious.

Breakfast would include a soft-boiled egg, two slices of wholesome toast, butter and grapefruit juice.

One lettuce and cheese sandwich on wholewheat bread, pea soup, lettuce salad with mayonnaise, prune whip and milk would be the enticement lunch.

Finally, the model meal for dinner would be fried liver, one baked potato, sliced raw carrots, cabbage salad and mayonnaise dressing, apple sauce and milk.

Miss Morse lists the likes of potato salad, cupcakes, baked beans, avocado salad and apple pie as tasty—maybe—but low in food value.

She has helped prepare a chart—RD-469—Check Food Values in the Daily Diet. Thus, with one eye on the grocery store specials and the other on the chart, the housewife can plan her meals to get the most food value for her money, Miss Morse says.

TRAPPER FOUND BEAVER A VERY GOOD PARTNER

THE P.A.S. Man—Of interest to residents of Thicket Portage, the centre of Manitoba's revitalized beaver industry, is the report of last summer's study by J. B. Nash, University of Manitoba biologist, who described a strange engineering partnership between a trapper and his beaver.

The trapper was the late Joseph Hermansky, who died suddenly last fall. Mr. Nash describes how Mr. Hermansky built portions of a dam on his trap line on MacLaren's Creek during the day, and the beaver finished his work each night.

So closely did the trapper and the beaver work together that Mr. Hermansky finally built just the heavy cribbing portions of the dam, confident that next morning all the chinking and filling would be done by the beaver. The plan worked and the dam still stands.

WITHOUT RISK OF FAILURES
if you use CERTO

It's simply wonderful... the difference in jam and jelly-making when you use Certo. You get jams and jellies that look better, taste better, are better... and much more of them. That's because Certo is "fruit pectin"—the natural substance in fruit that makes jams "jam" and jellies "jelly"—extracted and refined ready for your use.

THE CERTO BOIL IS SO SHORT

With Certo you boil only one-to-two minutes for jams—a half-minute-to-a-minute for jellies. No prolonged, tedious boiling to make sure your jam or jelly will set. Certo makes all fruits set "just right." This extremely Certo short boil means:

- 1 You get 50% more jam or jelly because practically none of your precious fruit juice is boiled away.
- 2 The time you spend is cut down to a fraction.
- 3 The natural colour and taste of the fresh fruit are retained. The Certo boil is too short to dull the one or spoil the other.

If you are only a beginner, don't worry. You'll have no failures if you follow exactly the recipes provided with Certo. Since different fruits need different handling, there's a separate, kitchen-tested recipe for each one.

BE ECONOMICAL—BE SMART—MAKE JAM AND JELLY THE QUICK EASY MODERN CERTO WAY. ASK YOUR GROCER FOR CERTO TODAY.

A pound of jam or jelly made with Certo contains no more sugar than a pound made the old, long-boil way.

Tailing Trouble

Driving can be safe, but injury and death stalk the careless driver. NO PRACTICE IS MORE LOADED WITH DANGER THAN FOLLOWING TOO CLOSELY BEHIND ANOTHER VEHICLE, especially a large one that obscures the view ahead. If the driver ahead stops suddenly, you are in a smash-up. If you pull out to pass, you may be hit by an approaching car before you have time to see it. Drive carefully and live longer.

The A.M.A. Promotes Tourist Trade

Every Albertan benefits, directly or indirectly from this flow of buying power across our borders. The A.M.A. has worked consistently for improvement of roads, accommodations, and conditions generally, as they affect the good opinion of our visitors. A.M.A. membership will add pleasure to your motor trips, and give you many benefits—for only $10 a year.

Let us have good roads in Alberta AND safe roads. The government's announced road building plans for 1948 are one step in the right direction. A step towards safer roads can also be taken by the inauguration of some system of Driver Training and Testing. We recommend to the government that its study of such a plan be carried into action as soon as practicable.

EVERYBODY'S BUSINESS

by Don Graham

In our daily lives all of us must mingle and perhaps work with people whom we do not like. And this presents a problem which everyone should recognize and attempt to solve.

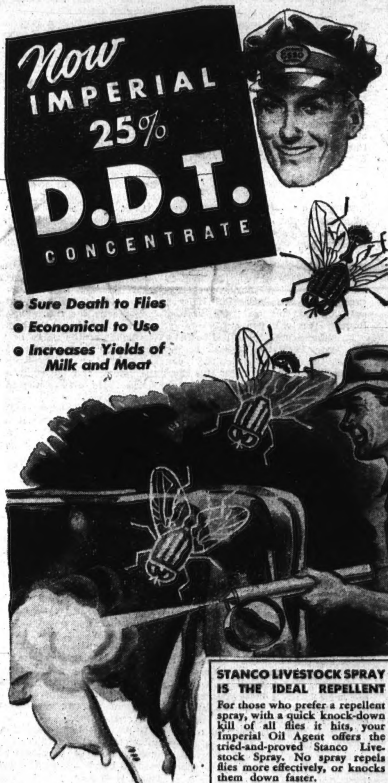

Obviously we cannot "hate these people off the earth". We must somehow adjust ourselves to associating with them.

"It takes all kinds to make a world." And, after all, there are bound to be some people who do not like us. So we should try to develop a spirit of tolerance.

More important, we should try to conceal our dislikes. For when we show our feelings, it merely makes matters worse.

On the other hand, if you make even a little effort to be friendly and courteous towards those who "rub you the wrong way", it will make your relationships with them more pleasant. And eventually it may lead to genuine friendships.

For another aid to happier, more successful living, try to cultivate peace of mind in every possible way—especially financially. Life insurance offers the most dependable and effective way to achieve this for yourself and your family.

STANCO LIVESTOCK SPRAY IS THE IDEAL REPELLENT

For those who prefer a repellent spray, with a quick knock-down kill of all flies it hits, your Imperial Oil Agent offers the tried-and-proved Stanco Livestock Spray. No spray repels flies more effectively, or knocks them down faster.

THIS YEAR, you can rid your livestock and your stables, hog pens and poultry houses of flies, more completely than ever before. Imperial D D T Concentrate is the answer to your prayer, as far as flies are concerned.

It's economical to use, too. For power spraying or dipping, you mix only 1 part concentrate to 125 parts water (which is equal to about 2½ tablespoons in a gallon). For hand spraying, you double the strength. For walls and ceilings, a gallon of concentrate makes 5 gallons of spray.

As it dries, it leaves a residue of D D T on the animals' hair, on oo walls and ceilings, which is sure death to every fly that lights on it. They pick it up on their feet and it kills by paralysis.

Imperial D D T Concentrate is the most up-to-the-minute fly killer on the market. You can depend on it. See your Imperial Oil Agent.
